K. H. S. VS. ALBANY AGAIN SATURDAY

Hall's Team Plays On Enemy Ground This Time And Highly Touted Poughkeepsie Team Is Next Opponent Following Saturday In This City.

The Kingston High School football team held Albany High School's eleven to a scoreless tie on Saturday last and are now preparing to down Albany on their own gridiron on Saturday.

Coach Hall gave the boys a rest on Monday and resumed regular practice again Tuesday afternoon. He is putting them through a hard drilling daily with tackling and scrimmage practice, so that by the end of the week even the dummy will be lame and sore and glad to get a rest over the week end.

The game will be played in Kingfield Park, Albany, and a large crowd of local enthusiasts expect to journey to Albany on Saturday to root for their representatives.

One week from Saturday the Kingston High Shcool eleven will line up on the Athletic Field against their old and still greatest rivals in athletics, Poughkeepsie High School.

Poughkeepsie has been publishing articles daily telling of the wonderful strength and power of her team and they have been playing good football, too.

However, they have not met any opponents which will in any way compare with the Albany team which K. H. S. met in the opening game and held to a scoreless tie.

STABBING CASE SETTLED TODAY

By Joseph Charles Withdrawing Charge of Assault He Had Preferred Against John Henry Bassett Who Had Stabbed Him With Jackknife.

This morning in police court John Henry Bassett, the downtown negro arrested the other evening by the police, was arraigned before Acting Judge Shufeldt on a charge of assault in the third degree preferred against him by Joseph Charles, the man he stabbed. When the case was called Mr. Charles stated that he wished to withdraw the charge against Bassett, as he did not care to prosecute.

Charles's request to dismiss the charge was granted and Bassett discharged. John M. Cashin represented Bassett.

It is understood that Charles did not care to press the charge against Bassett because of his consideration for Bassett's mother. Bassett has agreed to pay Charles's doctor bill.

The assault occurred in a saloon downtown after an argument between the two men.

4 WALL ST. BLAST SUSPECTS HELD

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 7.—Four prisoners were detained at police headquarters today while William J. Flynn, chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, sought evidence to see if they could be connected in any way with the Wall street bomb explosion, the prisoners are:

Giacomo Caruso, of Corona, L. I., known to the police as an anarchist and bomb expert, charged with violation of the anti-pistol carrying law and robbery; Charles Fasulio, New York barber, charged with having explosives in his possession without a permit; Vincezo Abato, New York, charged with robbery.

Frank A. Ferro, New York, charged with robbery.

Chief Flynn said Caruso had been an object of special interest to his men since 36 bombs were sent to prominent men May 1, 1919. He has been actively shadowed since January. Caruso denied to the police and secret service agents that he was involved in the Wall street bomb outrage or that he had any knowledge of it. The prisoner is said to be a member of the Bresca anarchists and a friend of Alexander Berkman and Emma Goldman. The police say they found two suitcases filled with anarchistic literature in his home and also a doubled barrelled shot gun.

Fasulio, Abato and Ferro were arrested by government detectives in a raid on a house in East Fifteenth street where the authorities allege a quantity of black powder of the kind used in making bombs were found.

Caruso, Abato and Ferro are said to have gone to Waterbury, Conn., the night following the Wall street bomb explosion. They have been identified as three of six men who held up and robbed a Waterbury coffee house.

MACSWINEY SENDS HIS FAREWELL

Through Brother Tells Americans of Martyrdom—Is Bundle of Skin and Bones—British Not to Allow Public Funeral.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Oct. 7.—From his bed in the Brixton jail infirmary, Terence Mac Swiney, the hunger striking Lord Mayor of Cork, today sent what may be his final messsage to the American people. The message was sent through his brother, Peter Mac Swiney of New York, who has just arrived here. It says:

"Terence wishes me to say that he sends love to President de Valera of the Irish republic, his colleagues and the American people. He and his comrades in the jail are determined to offer up their lives for the sake of the Irish republic. Terence is very weak but his courage and determination has never wavered."

This was the fifty-fifth day of his hunger strike.

Peter Mac Swiney was deeply shocked at the change in his brother's appearance since he last saw him. Terence is emaciated almost to the death. The bones in his face, limbs and ribs protrude almost through the skin. His eyes are sunken until they appear almost invisible.

The Cork lord mayor was indignant over reports that he was taking nourishment. He told his brother he wished to emphasize that he is dying for a people and for the freedom of his country.

It is rumored that in the event of Mac Swiney's death in the immediate future, the government will not allow a public funeral to be held in Cork.

A few more cars will be required owing to the large attendance of visiting delegates, the majority of whom have never seen the great dam, fountains and other wonders of the Ashokan, and owners who can spare their cars for two hours will be heartily thanked if they will bring or send theirs at the time above mentioned.

FALL OPENING AT "Y" WEDNESDAY

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the Y. M. C. A. fall opening at the association building Wednesday. The banquet occasion always helps to make the affair an informal one.

The Gloria Trumpters were exceptionally fine musicians and rendered many interesting selections during the evening. They knew how to readily adapt themselves to circumstances and gladly consented to play for the Parent Teachers Association at the high school building.

Judson J. McKim of New Haven proved to be a speaker of considerable force. He spoke on the subject of "What is the Matter with Business." He told of how the women now have an opportunity of carrying their home principles into business. Mr. McKim spoke of how heads of big industries now see that one of their great privileges and problems is to render service to the public through their employees. Not what they can get out of business but what they could put in and how much service can be rendered the public is and should be their prime object of being in business.

PARENT-TEACHER CONVENTION AT ROCHESTER NEXT

Wednesday afternoon was devoted by the Parent-Teacher Association convention almost exclusively to the subject of child welfare. Following the invocation by the Very Rev. Dean Hickey, the spirit of the afternoon was expressed in a most unusual way. Little Master Robert A. Liscom, Jr., who could but just be seen through the tall foliage of the stage decorations sang very sweetly and appealingly, "Daddy," and as an encore number a charming lullaby, which was in the nature of a motion song. The little singer was forced to repeat the encore before the mothers and teachers would let him go.

Before the real child welfare program began there was a conference of presidents held, Mrs. Holley introducing Mrs. Albert W. Weaver of Buffalo as the leader. This conference was in the character of a round table and many problems were wisely discussed and reasonable solutions were offered from the floor.

One of the questions most frequently asked was how to make more efficient and of larger membership, the associations, and the very clever ways and means recommended will doubtless be taken by the delegates as well as the presidents, to their home organizations.

Another vital problem seemed to be how to interest the fathers as well as the mothers, and here again here again there were a number of excellent suggestions offered.

The most animated discussion however seemed to center about the social activities of our children in relation to the schools, and it appeared to be the consensus of opinion that, the children should have their social gatherings, at the schools, their dances, etc., within reasonable hours and when properly chaperoned. As for the matter of improper dances, it had been found quite possible to eradicate that evil, by the chaperons forbidding such dances, and where not then obeyed, stopping the dances altogether until the boys and girls asked again for them promising to do as asked by the chaperons.

In some cities the boards of education furnish instructors in dancing so that the children may be trained in deportment and proper forms of dancing, which proved very satisfactory. One of the larger associations gave the following brief account of their way of interesting both parents and teachers. They try for more members; more money; more interest. They have five kinds of memberships and a scale of dues as follows:

Members who will act on committees.

Members who will regularly attend meetings but not as committee members.

Passive members who want to support the organization but cannot work.

These all pay $1 a year dues.

Then for others who are really interested in the work and are willing to pay more, there are the sustaining memberships, with $3 dues and the honorary memberships with $5 dues.

At their meetings they often have ten minute papers by the mothers or teachers, the mothers telling of things they are themselves especially proficient in, and often proving, because of their vital interest in their subjects, very interesting speakers. Moreover the other members seem many times to be more desirous of hearing Mrs. Jones or Smith or Brown of their own association speak than some noted outside speaker.

Then there is the layette work. At the executive meetings the women keep their fingers busy and make many complete layettes for poor expectant mothers during the executive meetings of a year, while at some of the schools the sewing is general and at the end of the year the articles made are sold to advantage. This report was enthusiastically applauded.

As a way of interesting teachers in particular, one association turned over an early meeting to the teachers alone, giving them that opportunity to tell their problems and ask for such aid as they might need.

At the close of the conference, Mrs. Holley said that she was sure that they would all want to hear from one of the Rochester delegates who had a matter to present to the convention. The matter proved to be an invitation from the Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations of Rochester and from the Chamber of Commerce of that city to the present gathering to hold the 1921 convention in Rochester, and the invitation was gladly and enthusiastically accepted.

Mrs Holley then said that while they had all been working so earnestly in the interest of the child welfare movement, the state had also been doing a great work along this line and it would she knew, prove not only interesting and instructive to hear of that work, but in the hearing the Parent-Teachers' Association might learn how to further cooperate with the state.

The first speaker on the child welfare program was Dr. Charles H. Johnson, secretary of the state board of charities, who told of the work for neglected, dependent and delinquent children. Said Dr. Johnson, throughout the country it is being more and more realized that not monetary wealth, and commercial enterprise nor other material possessions are a child's or a state's greatest asset, but the children. Only very recently the state of Texas has shown its appreciation of this fact in that one of the first things the Rotary Clubs of the state has offered a prize of twenty-five hundred dollars to the city in the state that can prove that it is the best city for a child to live in. So where formerly cities sought advertising advantage from their material possessions today they are searching out all of their activities and interests that will the better promote childish growth and happy development. Then Dr. Johnson went on to show how the dependent children are not cared for by the states but by the cities and counties in which they would have their homes. That is, these children are cared for in private institutions and their care is paid for by the city or county. The speaker caused a smile to go over the faces of his hearers when he said that these children were like other children, though when connected with one of the orphan institutions himself he had had one lady exclaim, "Why, they look just like other children!" The doctor's reply was that they certainly did, for they were like other children.

Owing to the fact that we no longer have big epidemics with many fatalities or wide-reaching catastrophes, there are today very few full real orphans, and the majority of the children in the institutions called orphan homes or asylums have either one or both parents living. In answer to the question, "Then why are they there?" Dr. Johnson said in most cases because the fathers have deserted the mothers and children; in some cases because the mothers could not give proper guardianship; in others because there was not proper guardianship on the part of either or both parents. The speaker admitted that while everything is today being done to make the institutions where our dependent children are as happy, as sanitary, as home-like as possible for them, still the state realizes that no institution can take the place of home influence. So today, wherever possible, good homes are being found for dependent children until such time as the parent or parents if living, may be in a position to take the children back into their own homes. In this connection Dr. Johnson explained that the purpose of the "widows' pension" was not at all to afford a pension for widows as such, but to provide a pension for widow mothers in order that they may keep their children in their own homes.

The delinquent child was an entirely different problem, according to the speaker. Even though he or she may have started in the broad pathway that leads downward, going so far as to break some law, still we have learned the unspeakable danger of putting such youthful sinners where they must associate with hardened criminals; hence our juvenile courts, which are usually carried on in a room adjoining the regular court room. Here the boys and girls more often receive fatherly advice and admonition from the judge than any official punishment. And in place of the reform schools the more approved handling of these children is through the probation officer, or a "big brother or sister," a man or woman into whose care these first offenders are placed for a specified time.

But when the probation system failed and the child persisted in wrong doing, then the delinquents could be sent to our reform schools. Right here the speaker noted that another immeasurable step forward had been taken. He could not see why these schools had ever been called "Houses of Refuge," for no human being would ever think of taking refuge there in. Today in our state there are two schools for boys and one for girls. Just outside of Rochester is the great N. Y. State Agricultural and Industrial School, with its twelve hundred acres of land, its two hundred and two cottages, with fifteen boys to the cottage. Some of the cottages have fifty acres connected with them. And there are no fences. It is hoped that before long the Randall's Island School may find quarters upstate. The girls' school at Hudson is equally attractive, and at all of these schools every facility is offered to help the boys and girls to get back on the right road.

Dr. Johnson counted the problem of the defective children the most serious one. Now we know that in many, many cases the defects which we used to call feeble mindedness can be completely cured if recognized in time. But first we must be on the lookout to discover which children are defective. Where the special classes do not correct the trouble, then for the sake of society, the defective children must be segregated.

In closing Dr. Johnson begged the women in his audience to return to their homes and where any of the above mentioned child welfare agencies were lacking to get busy and have the back trade road at once.

Dr. Johnson was followed by Dr. Wilbur Hoag, state model in-

103 YEARS YOUNG; HE'S FOR HARDING

"If I should live to be another 100 years old I certainly would never vote for a member of the Democratic party for President or any other national office."

So declares "Grandpa" Albert Vogel, 103 years young, of Jeannette, Pa., who cast his first vote in a presidential election for Polk, voted for Abraham Lincoln and has voted the Republican ticket ever since. Next month he will vote for Harding and Coolidge.

"Tell the country I am for Harding and Coolidge and America first," says Mr. Vogel. "I want no Wilson League of Nations. President Wilson's autocracy and the wastefulness of those he gathered about him as his official family was to be expected. It has been a Democratic trait for years."

"Grandpa" Vogel takes a daily constitutional over streets near his home in Jeannette. Occasionally he preaches a sermon from one of the Western Pennsylvania churches with old time vigor. He started life as an assistant lamplighter in the Capitol grounds at Washington when he was fifteen years old. He often ran errands for members of Congress and can vividly recall the eloquence of Henry Clay and Daniel Webster and other famous statesmen of that period. He saw Andrew Jackson inaugurated in 1832. Later he became a Methodist minister.

EDITORS PAY VISIT TO MARION STAR AND FIND A REAL PAPER.

"If President Harding is as big a success as Editor Harding he will go down in history in the Hall of Fame," writes J. Gabbert of Riverside, Cal., in an article just published on his return from Marion, where he visited Harding's paper.

"We found just the sort of a paper a future President might be expected to edit," says Mr. Gabbert, "and the visit, to us came nearer to being an editorial conference than a political crusade.

"We found men working for Editor Harding who had been with him for periods varying from 20 to 33 years. We found that Editor Harding follows closely every detail incident to the publication of his paper. He knows what pay the helpers on the floor get, just as he knows the amount he pays his manager. He can handle type like the rest of us, and it would keep my foreman busy to beat him on setting up a stick of 8-point type. He knows how to make up a paper like a veteran and he is just as much at home in the business office looking over the advertising accounts."

MACFADDEN OPENS KINGSTON BRANCH

Mac Fadden, Custer & Co., Investment Brokers, Will Open Office In Mr. Mac Fadden's Home Town.

Mac Fadden, Custer & Co., an amalgamation of the retail branches of Mac Fadden & Co., Inc., of the Equitable Trust Building, New York city, and Custer & Co. of No. 119 Broadway, New York city, have leased offices in the Weisberg building, No. 273 Fair street and will open a branch in Kingston, the home of Mr. Mac Fadden, where he is widely known and has many friends.

Having become closely associated in a number of recent underwritings the joint operation of the Custer & Co. and Mac Fadden & Co., out of town offices readily suggested itself as a means to larger accomplishment and greater efficiency.

In speaking of the new office now being opened in Kingston, Mr. Mac Fadden stated that he had purposely deferred such a move until becoming so well established in the investment banking field, through the building up of close associations with the largest banking houses, that they would be in a position to bring to Kingston the best there is to be had anywhere in the country in bonds, short-term notes and dividend paying stocks. That time having now arrived, the first move on the part of the combined organization is the establishment of this Kingston office, which will be followed with others throughout the state, in addition to enlarging those already existing.

Daniel A. Custer of the firm is a native of Ohio, where he was for many years an officer of the Lima Trust Co., of Lima, Ohio—which position he left to become general sales manager of R. L. Dollings & Co., investment bankers, of Columbus, O., whose organization numbered more than 300 salesmen. With a desire to enter the New York financial world, Mr. Custer became associated with Montgomery & Co., of 14 Wall street, which is recognized one of the strongest and most conservative banking houses in the east. Early in 1919 Mr. Custer severed his connection with Montgomery & Co., to form his own firm—Custer & Company, which has been identified with many of the important underwritings which have appeared during the last year.

Mr. Mac Fadden and Mr. Custer both stated to The Freeman reporter who interview them today, that one of the most important features of the business which they propose to establish in Kingston is that of service and expert counsel in all investment matters. Their capacity to render such service to the full is emphasized by their direct connection with the firm's own New York offices, as well as by affiliation with such Wall street houses as Montgomery & Co., Bankers' Trust Co., H. L. Doherty & Co., Weed, Edwards & Co., Stacy & Braun and W. R. Compton & Co.

100 REPORTED TRAPPED IN FIRE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 7.—A hundred persons were reported trapped by fire on the tank steamship Crowe following an explosion while the steamship was lying at anchor at the foot of 27th street, Brooklyn. The police reported that several persons had been killed, but none injured.

The boilers on the ship were believed to have exploded.

LAST BALL GAME HERE SATURDAY

The Kingston fans will be given a last opportunity to see the local baseball team in action here when on Saturday afternoon the Kingston team lines up against the Saugerties team at Athletic Field. The teams have each won a game and the Saturday game will be the deciding one of the series. Sunday the local boys will go to Saugerties, where they will close the season. The Saugerties team put up a good game against the locals when they met before and Saturday's game should be a lively contest. Kingston is going to throw the best line-up possible into the field and will make every effort to bring the season to a close with a victory over the "paper town" players.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 7.—There were variable changes in the stock market at the opening today, but the tone was generally strong and the important changes were to higher figures. The leading railway issues became the most prominent features.

More Newspaper Astronomy.

An English newspaper, quoted in Popular Astronomy, undertakes to answer the question "Why Is the Moon Not Always Round?" and enlightens its readers in the following terms: "It is. The reason it changes in appearance is that the earth's shadow is thrown upon it by the sun, and the size of the shadow varies each night when the moon is visible."

KNOWING HOW.

As the people get better acquainted with Nathan L. Miller, candidate of the Republicans for governor, the more convinced they are that no error was made when he was selected as the standard bearer of the Republican party in the state of New York. His speeches have proved that he knows how the state's business should be handled and that his knowledge is first-hand rather than hearsay. Mr. Miller was comptroller long enough to acquire an insight into the financial affairs of the state, and no office within the gift of the voters, not barring governor, offers greater opportunity to discern what should and should not be done to give the state a decent administration.

Mr. Miller, in every speech that he has made, has gone right to the bottom of things and he has shown that he is thorough and not the type of man to take for granted all that may be given to him. He prefers to have the facts as they are and not as they may be colored. In this respect his words have resounded with truth and vigor and have had the ring to them that people want to hear. His experience has taught him to eliminate non-essentials from essentials, and it also has taught him not to be swayed from the safe and the sane by the clamor of those whose views are not well founded and whose motives may frequently be actuated by the selfish and the personal. In this particular he grows daily in the estimation of the people who desire the things that are solid rather than those that are soft.

That Mr. Miller has given deep thought to the industrial conditions was shown definitely in his speech of acceptance—a document worth saving—when he took up the matter of employe and employer, saying that his sympathies were with those who toil for daily existence, that he would not lend himself to makeshift expedients designed only to satisfy clamor, which are injurious to those for whose benefit they purport to be. He also declared that the self-respecting workingman and working woman do not want charity but they want justice to give them a fair share of the fruits of their labor in their pay envelopes and not in charity.

Treating this all-important subject as he did was evidence that a big man had been nominated by the Republican party for the highest office within the gift of the electors of the state. His declaration was straight from the shoulder, clear and distinct, and so forcible that no room was left for doubt as to where he stands. It proved that he was unafraid to define his position, and in doing so he won the favor of all self-respecting people, who, as he said, want justice and not charity. Not only has he handled this subject in a commanding manner but his treatment of the whole scheme of state government has been such as give him the stamp of a man capable in every respect to fill the duties of the office for which he was nominated. Every word he has said thus far has been a body blow at those who dwell on fancy rather than fact and who never look under the surface to determine whether their recommendations will last over night.

JAPS IN AMERICA.

A Tokio correspondent of the Associated Press gives the following interesting summary of the sentiment in Japan on the California anti-Japanese measures: There is genuine apprehension lest exclusion movements follow elsewhere, especially in the British dominions. The Japs complain that Americans confuse the effort to protect acquired Japanese rights in California with the not involved general question of immigration. The Japs regard war over the matter as "impossible," but consider [illegible] estrangement [illegible] "possibility." The Japs contend [illegible] the Japanese question in California be left alone it will settle itself, because when the present settlers who cannot be naturalized die or return to Japan only their legal American progeny will remain, and these in the course of time will be assimilated.

The expectation that the children [illegible] in California will be "assimilated" has but a flimsy basis if any at all. In former times this argument was addressed by some northern sentimentalists to the south in regard to the negro, but of course it fell upon deaf ears. Nature itself abhors the proposition. Doves do not mate with robins, and the grand divisions of the human race will remain distinct, except in a few abnormal individual instances. The impossibility of assimilation is the most serious part of the Pacific coast's Japanese problem.

Taft, William Church Osborn, DeLancey Nicoll, Morgan J. O'Brien, Henry L. Stimson, James W. Gerard, Paul D. Cravath, Austen G. Fox and Lewis L. Delafield. This is Lord Cave's first visit to this country. He is one of the most distinguished of the English judges. A graduate of Oxford, a member of the Inner Temple, a Master of the Chancery Bar, standing counsel to Oxford University, formerly Attorney General to the Prince of Wales, and solicitor general before his elevation to the bench. He has been the guest of the Duke of Devonshire, Governor General of Canada, at Ottawa. At the dinner Monday evening he spoke most impressively of the necessity of close and cordial personal relations between the prominent men of the British Empire and the United States to which countries he said there was a strong and growing opinion was entrusted the future of civilization in the world; that whatever distrust of the intentions of the United States heretofore had existed in Europe had been dispelled by the superb and unselfish action of this country in the great world war, he thought that the cultivation of intimate personal friendships would do far more towards the creation and preservation of close international ties than leagues or treaties.

LAKE KATRINE.

Lake Katrine, Oct. 7.—Miss Anna Snyder, Miss Christina Fonda and Miss Mary Osterhoudt were week end guests of Miss Anna Osterhoudt, Hurley.

Miss Margaret Sears spent Sunday in New York city.

Mrs. Albert Bishop has returned to Brooklyn for the winter.

Mrs. Sara Burhans has returned from Albany where she visited her daughters, Mrs. Mac Pherson and Mrs. Richard Ten Eyke.

Mrs. A. B. Bogart left for a trip to Bogota, Hackensack, and Wilmington, Del., where she will visit her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Bogart.

It is feared that Mr. Shaler who was so seriously cut and bruised in the accident Saturday night will lose the sight of one eye.

It was gentlemen's night at the regular Grange meeting Monday. That does not mean it was a stag affair, but the lecturer gave over the charge of the entire program and the serving the refreshments to them. The musical selections were sung in good spirit and the solos by Ralph Young were received with hearty applause. Mr. Bogart had an article on Fall lime, which was followed by a brief account of their visit to the Sullivan County Fair by Brothers Wright and Kieffer. Mr. Parish spoke on the advantages of pure milk and James Gaddis gave a very thrilling account of some of his experiences while serving as state trooper. The refreshments which consisted of hot dogs, rolls, cake and coffee were thoroughly enjoyed and the ladies unanimously voted to have them repeat it in the near future. The Grange is planning a Harvest Festival which means not only a display of fruits and vegetables, but also of old time relics and curios, of which Lake Katrine has an abundance. This is in charge of A. Bogart who so successfully engineered the one at Mt. Marion and the entertainment committee of which Mrs. David Kieffer is chairman. A chicken dinner will also be served in connection with this and the cooperation of every member of the Grange is requested.

Rally Day will be observed on Sunday, October 10, as first announced at 3 o'clock. Home Department members and all interested in Sunday school work are cordially invited to attend.

"Lightnin'" at Opera House; Comedy Broad and Light Elsewhere.

"In Wrong" at Keeney's tonight. Here is a simple little story of the home spun type with a wholesome atmosphere and affording pleasant entertainment of the light comedy order. It shows the country boy in love with the home town girl, the arrival of the city chap, and later the entrance of the city girl to assist in hampering the little romance of the country lovers. Of course the country boy is much misunderstood and always manages to get placed in a bad light before the villagers whereas the city visitor is idolized for his apparent cleverness. Jack Pickford as the country boy gives one of his greatest screen characterizations. "Edgar and the Teacher's Pet" is a dry, witty comedy with the Tarkington touch of humor that has made him millions of friends. Tomorrow afternoon and Saturday all day James Oliver Curwood's story of the north woods "Back to God's Country" starring Nell Shipman.

Julian Eltinge, the world's greatest female impersonator, and a corking pretty bunch of bathing girls is the attraction at the Auditorium tonight in "The Adventuress," a story of the thrilling escapades of a female-man. Tomorrow "The Trail of a Cigarette."

"Lightnin" at the Opera House tonight.

Where is the husband who is not critical of his coffee?

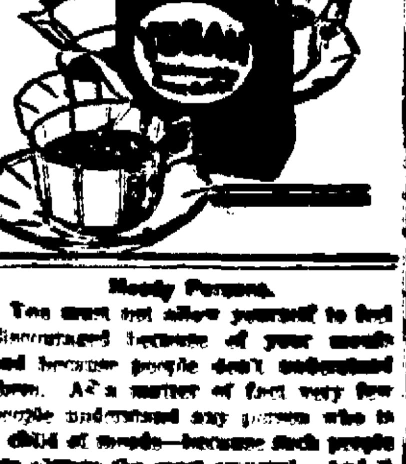

No matter how tolerant a man may be of his food he is always critical of the quality of his coffee.

Many coffees may seem to have good flavor on first trial. Many have it one morning and not the next. But rare is the coffee which morning after morning has the same perfect flavor. Indeed, until Yuban appeared it was practically impossible to find a coffee that would never disappoint. Yuban is the unfailing coffee.

It is the coffee that was chosen for men by men.

Serve him Yuban. Always, every morning it will give him the full invigorating flavor he likes.

Start him off each morning with the satisfaction that carries him cheerful through the day.

Shark Oil as Commerce.

An American citizen of San Francisco has secured a concession for the establishment of a shark oil industry in the Gulf of Fonseca. Besides the oil, which will find a market locally from the soap factories, as well as in the United States, the fins are marketable and fertilizer will be produced.

Something Hard to Believe.

In the department of Seine-et-Marne, France, some years ago a picture of a cow she was herding was printed on a peasant girl's breast by a flash of lightning. The cow was killed, but the girl recovered. An Italian sailor, killed by lightning as he sat near the mast, had upon his back a print of a horseshoe that was nailed to the mast.

Moody Persons.

You must not allow yourself to feel discouraged because of your moods and because people don't understand them. As a matter of fact very few people understand any person who is a child of moods—because such people are always the most unusual. And it takes unusual people to understand unusual people.—Exchange.

NOT SO TRAGIC, AFTER ALL

Fair Traveler's Emotion at Seeing Affecting Parting Was in Large Part Unealled For.

The temperamental difference between a restrained and an emotional race occasionally brings about kindred effects through accident. A lady, waiting for a belated train, witnessed a most affecting parting between an aged father and his son, both Italians. The old man seemed in a frenzy of woe. He moaned, raved, lifted his clenched hands toward heaven and shook them despairingly.

"Poor, poor souls!" she exclaimed, compassionately. "The young man going away to seek his fortune and the old man left behind. I suppose he fears they may never meet again. A common tragedy, but it grips one's very heart."

"Cheer up!" briskly advised her companion, who understood Italian. "The young chap is only going to the next town to visit his married sister and the venerable old person is worried because he loaned him his season ticket and wishes now he hadn't promised to do so. He says he knows the boy will lose it, but, anyway, if he does, he'll break every bone in his body when he gets home. That's all."

MONUMENTS OF VAST SIZE

That on Leipzig Battlefield, Though Higher, Less Costly Than Memorial to Italian King.

Leipzig possesses a monument which rises only a few inches short of 300 feet. "The Battle of the Nations" monument stands in the middle of the plain where Blucher routed Napoleon's army. One million cubic meters of earth were displaced to make room for its base. It is surrounded by an enclosure a quarter of a mile wide and nearly half a mile long.

Next to the Pyramids it is the highest in the world, but it is by no means the costliest. This distinction belongs to the national memorial to Victor Emmanuel II, erected on the Capitoline hill in Rome at a cost of $20,000,000. It took 31 years to complete this huge pile of marble steps, covered with statues, bas-reliefs, and mosaics. Sacconi, the architect, who designed it, died long before the work was finished, but he left models complete in every detail, and his original plans were never tampered with.

Colors Save the Eggs.

We have heard a great deal about protective coloration in nature, and when we consider the advantages which accrue to protectively colored eggs we may wonder why some eggs have remained pure white through the ages, why others are of the most conspicuous greenish blue, and why still others stand out by their spotted or speckled patterns, says the American Forestry Magazine. White eggs are for the most part laid by hole-nesting species of birds like the owls and woodpeckers, and since the eggs are well hidden in their dark cavities it has not been necessary for them to develop protective coloration. The bright greenish blue eggs of most of the thrushes, for example, must be hidden in nests which are concealed in dense vegetation and the speckled eggs of the ground nesting sparrows depend for their safety upon the good hiding of the grass-woven nest.

FAULTS IN HEALTH SAFEGUARDING

Dr. Johnston Deals Roughly With System Permeated With Impractical People And Dispels Some Common Beliefs As To Germs.

Public health problems of the small city were discussed by Dr. Frank A Johnston, health officer of the city of Kingston, at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday in an address that was remarkable for directness and plain speaking. Dr. Johnston said in opening that he did not propose to talk about the little things, the complaints about squalling cats, dog fights and petty annoyances that were complained of, but of the education of the ordinary person in regard to communicable diseases. The doctor did not confine himself to this subject, but launched out on a pointed criticism of fads and foibles of the theorists who duplicate one another's work and are paid salaries for compiling cords of statistics that nobody ever uses.

Many persons have an idea, said the speaker, that germs live for years and if you come within 100 yards of a sick person the germs will fly down your throat. The fact is that few germs will live long when removed from the human body. The usual method of communicating disease is not by germs carried in clothing or in the air but by direct contact, either with the person who has the disease or with a disease carrier. Fumigating only makes a stink. The thing to do is to look for the carrier. There are typhoid areas in which the disease breaks out every now and then in which there is a carrier. Then there are flies, the filthiest animal alive. The state health department calls for fumigation, but does not believe in it.

Food and milk are sources of disease communication, but the milk situation in Kingston is more favorable than in many places. Our laboratory has been getting results, the farmers are interested and are cooling their milk.

Then there is tuberculosis. The biggest mistake is in trying to place all tuberculosis cases in one hospital where those in the incipient stages are surrounded by those who are dying. There should be an isolation hospital for incipient cases where patients should be taught to care for themselves and another hospital for advanced cases. As it is we allow tuberculosis carriers to run loose. This work should be under the health department, not carried on by various unofficial bodies.

The state health department is full of theorists who sit in swivel chairs and dream. We are visited by 12 visiting nurses who do nothing but collect statistics. This kind of work is duplicated. Reports of births and deaths are collected by three branches of the state government and sent to Albany. We have school physicians and school nurses under control of the state education department. We have the State Charities Aid and other organizations duplicating the work of one another, not responsible to the local health department.

We should have a food and milk inspector who knows how to inspect meat and milk, how to score a dairy, how to inspect cows, etc. We need a tuberculosis nurse under the authority of the health officer, not under the control of a private organization responsible to nobody.

Next winter we will have a health center bill up in the legislature, surcharged with new fads and isms. It is not needed. It will involve expense and be a curse to the state. It will provide a lot of fat jobs for superintendents and deputies and nurses to provide for things that are better done now without all this machinery. In case of necessity any supervisor can now have patients sent to either the Kingston City Hospital or the Benedictine Sanitarium at a cost of $2 a day. There the best of care will be given, far better than could be given in the home with a special nurse in attendance, as would be done under the proposed new law.

ROSENDALE TO GET ITS GOOD ROAD

Supervisor Hasbrouck's Resolution Adopted—Contract for Poor House Plumbing Goes to Brown & Dressel.

The people of Rosendale village no doubt felt better today when they learned that the board of supervisors at the adjourned session Wednesday evening unanimously adopted the resolution of Supervisor Hasbrouck of that town, offered on Tuesday evening and laid over under the rule, approving the revised plans and specifications for a concrete road through that village and that $6,050 be raised, levied and assessed on the county of Ulster to pay its share of the increased cost which arises by reason of the change in the plans. The village of Rosendale will pay $700 as its share for extra work.

The board began its session at about 7:30 o'clock and as there were but two called-up resolutions and the auditing of a few bills, the session was a brief one. After the call of the roll, Chairman Sagendorf and his associates on the special committee on hospital addition to the county poor house, called up their resolution awarding the contract for plumbing, heating and ventilating of the building to Brown & Dressel, and that the county treasurer borrow on the credit of the county if necessary $10,774 and place the same to the credit of the hospital building fund, the said sum to be raised, levied and assessed on the county outside the city. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

Clerk DeWitt called attention to several bills that had been examined by the county attorney, John W. Eckert, and found legal claims, and who had recommended that they be audited. The bills or claims were four approved by the election commission of Thomas J. Leonard, Walter Miller, Mark Sampson, $20 each, and Peter Schatzel, $22, being for work compiling the fall primary vote. On motion of Supervisor Fratsher, the claims were audited and warrants ordered issued by the chairman and clerk.

Other bills read and audited on motion of Supervisor Fratsher were one of $18.50 from James Miller and one of $12 from Cunningham & Flemming, being for services to highway committee on rights of way; a bill of $1,244.46 of Myron S. Teller, architect, for work in connection with county poor hospital as approved by the special committee and to be levied on county outside city; also bills of L. R. Conner and Silas Castor, justices of the peace of the town of Rosendale, for making orders on 26 dogs, which bills were made out for $5.20 each, but were approved at $3 each by the county attorney, the amount allowed by law, and warrants for the approved amounts were ordered issued.

The board of supervisors then took a recess, subject to the call of the chair.

The members are asked to meet in the Sunday school so as to sit down to supper at 6:30 promptly. There will be singing of familiar songs, and brief speeches. One of the speakers will be the district superintendent, Dr. G. W. Grinton. Sunday will be Rally Day in the church and Sunday school. The members of the church are requested to be in attendance. CLOTHING PRICES

At Turning Point; Keep Buying, Urges Trade Leader.

Eli Strous, president of the National Association of Clothiers, announced yesterday his belief that the turning point of high clothing prices has been reached and that the descent into normal prices has begun. Mr. Strous does not believe there will be any violent slump. On the contrary, he said, pre-war prices are far off.

In their efforts to reduce costs and at the same time to maintain a consistent purchasing movement among the public, retailers, according to Mr. Strous, have begun to sell clothes at prices that return them scanty profit or no profit at all. They are forgoing profits, he stated, because they feel that national conditions demand that buying be bolstered up and labor kept employed. In return, the consumer can help the situation by buying and not boycotting.

In analyzing the situation that prevails in the ready to wear clothing market Mr. Strous said.

"There is no doubt that the turning point of high clothing prices has been reached, but the costs which enter into the clothing business are responding very slowly to this tendency. The cost of woollens has been reduced slightly, but lower wages for the laborers are not in sight. The wage evil cannot ever go back to the 1914 level, nor will there ever be a return to the horrible sweat-shop system. We hope with the cooperation of labor to increase its efficiency. We are doing our utmost to decrease waste and to lower production costs in every way.

"If the public desires to have steadily decreasing prices it must accept each new price level as it comes. Buying hesitation slows up reduction and even stops it. This results in a shortage of goods and higher prices."

Dr. Hanker and family expect to move to one of the houses on the state road on November 1.

George Davis and wife and the Rev. A. T. Paxson and wife attended the meeting of the Classis at Grahamsville on Tuesday.

How to make your bedroom floors cool in Summer and warm in Winter

Blabon Art Floors of linoleum make cool, clean, smooth, summery floor surfaces in warm weather. They are attractive, quiet and comfortable to the tread, and easy to keep clean.

In Winter with rugs over your Blabon floors you will find them much warmer than wood—because they are practically crackless, they are more receptive than wood to the heat in the room and when properly laid they resist cold.

FREEMAN WANT ADS. BRING RESULTS

HIGHLAND.

Highland, Oct. 7.—It is well known to all who reside in this place that there is a club of over 100 members called the Auxiliary Club. This is a live society. Last Friday 40 members and a few guests were welcomed by Mrs. H. W. Maynard, Mrs. George Hudson, Mrs. Charles DuBois, Mrs. Kelsey Staples and Miss Bessie DuBois, who were hostesses of the meeting. Devotional exercises were conducted by the Rev. and Mrs. F. A. Coons, and business was transacted as usual and the tendency of the club has been to pursue more or less strenuous purposes, and all such clubs stand for something which means hard work. These members are all active and whatever they undertake they make a success of. There were special committees appointed and later some new affairs may develop. After the routine of business, it was decided to have a social. No formality in seating was observed and friends were together everwhere.

Mrs J. R. Melins is visiting out of town.

Simeon Scott is improving slowly from his illness.

Mrs. F. Randall of Elmhurst, who has been visiting relatives here, returned home last week.

Mrs. Daniel H. Starr was hostess to the P. E. O. Society on Thursday afternoon. There was business and political discussions on candidates for state and county offices. Mrs. Sarah Pratt had charge of the program.

Several people of this place motored or went by train to Danbury to attend the fair, which commenced Monday and will close Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Jordan were out of town last Sunday.

Miss Bertha Dimsey was in Lloyd last Sunday.

Mrs. George Cornell, Ruby Cornell and Miss Amelia Elmendorf spent the week end in Washington Hollow, guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Decker.

The fire commissioners and a committee held a meeting Monday evening and the subject of a new hose house was brought up. A special election must be held and the subject brought before the people, and only taxpayers to determine what will be done. Due notice will be given in regard to this.

The Order of the Eastern Star will hold a masquerade on October 29, each member to invite two guests. Get your suits ready for certainly these affairs give a whole lot of sport.

Tuesday was election here for a fire commissioner. A. P. Wilklow, whose term expired, was nominated and no other candidate to run against him, he was unanimously re-elected. An appropriation of $2,000 was voted on.

Get your tickets for October 12. J. O. U. A. M. dance in J. W. Feeter's Hall.

Mrs. J. W. Merritt and Carrie Merritt of Brooklyn were guests of Captain and Mrs. R. H. Decker this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Millard Everett and children have returned home after a vacation spent in Easton Pa.

The evangelist who was expected to be in the M. E. Church soon will not be here. His terms were too big to consider and with the problem of no coal staring one in the face, such propositions would be out of the question.

1312. Article applicable to civil cases only.

§ 1283. Writ of certiorari abolished. The writ of certiorari is hereby abolished. The relief heretofore obtained by such writ under the provisions of the code of civil procedure shall hereafter be obtained by an order as provided in this article. Wherever in any statute reference is made to a writ of certiorari, such reference, when heretofore referring to a writ of certiorari as regulated by article seven of title two of chapter sixteen of the code of civil procedure, shall be deemed to refer to a certiorari order as provided in this article, and the relief given by any such statute by means of a writ shall be obtained by an order as provided in this article.

§ 1284. Granting of certiorari order. The certiorari order regulated in this article is granted to review the determination of a body or officer. It can be granted in one of the following cases only:

1. Where the right to the order or to a writ of certiorari is expressly conferred, or the granting thereof is expressly authorized, by a statute.

2. Where a writ of certiorari might be issued at common law, by a court of general jurisdiction, and the right to a certiorari, or the power of the court to grant the same, is not expressly taken away by a statute.

§ 1285. Granting of certiorari in civil cases. A certiorari order cannot be granted to review a determination made, after this article takes effect, in a civil action or special proceeding, by a court of record or a judge of a court of record.

§ 1286. Limitation upon granting certiorari orders. Except as otherwise expressly prescribed by statute, a certiorari order cannot be granted in either of the following cases:

1. To review a determination which does not finally determine the rights of the parties with respect to the matter to be reviewed.

2. Where the determination can be adequately reviewed by an appeal to a court or to some other body or officer.

3. Where the body or officer making the determination is expressly authorized, by statute to rehear the matter upon the petitioner's application; unless the determination to be reviewed was made upon a rehearing, or a rehearing has been denied, or the time within which the petitioner can procure a rehearing has elapsed.

§ 1287. Court by which order granted. A certiorari order can be granted only out of the supreme court, except in a case where another court is expressly authorized by statute to grant it.

§ 1288. Limitation of time for order. Subject to the provisions of the next section, a certiorari order to review a determination must be granted and served within four calendar months after the determination to be reviewed becomes final and binding, upon the petitioner or the person whom he represents, either in law or in fact.

§ 1289. Grant of order after removal of disability. The appellate division of the supreme court may grant the order at any time within twenty months after the expiration of the time limited in the last section, where the petitioner, or the person whom he represents, was at the time when the determination to be reviewed became final and binding upon him, either

1. Within the age of twenty-one years; or

2. Insane; or

3. Imprisoned on a criminal charge, or in execution upon conviction of a criminal offence, for a term less than for life.

§ 1290. Application for order. An application for the order must be made by or in behalf of a person aggrieved by the determination to be reviewed; must be founded upon a verified petition which may be accompanied by other written proof; and must show a proper case for the granting of the order. It can be granted only at a term of the appellate division of the supreme court or at a special term, and the granting or refusal thereof is discretionary with the court.

§ 1291. Notice of application. Unless otherwise provided by rule, the court to which the application for the order is made, in its discretion, may require or dispense with notice. A notice, when notice is necessary, must be served, with copies of the papers upon which the application is to be made, upon the body or officer whose determination is to be reviewed, or upon such other person as the court directs, as prescribed in this article for the service of a certiorari order. The service must be made at least eight days before the application, unless the court by an order to show cause prescribes a shorter time. Where notice is given, the person served may produce affidavits or other written proofs, upon the merits, in opposition to the application.

§ 1292. Against whom order directed. The order must be directed against the body or officer whose determination is to be reviewed; or against any other person having the custody of the record or other papers to be certified; or against both, if necessary. Where it is brought to review the determination of a board or body other than a court, if an action would lie against the board or body in its associate or official name, it must be directed against the board or body by that name; otherwise, it must be directed against the members thereof, by their names.

§ 1293. Entry of order. A certiorari order must be entered in the office of the clerk of the county designated in the order as the county where the same is returnable, according to the command thereof.

§ 1294. Service of order. A certiorari order must be served as follows, except where different directions respecting the mode of service thereof are given by the court granting it:

1. Where it is directed against a person or persons by name, or by his or their official title or titles, or against a municipal corporation, a certified copy of the order must be served upon each officer or other person against whom it is so directed, or upon the corporation, in the same manner as a summons in an action brought in the supreme court, except as prescribed in the next two subdivisions of this section.

2. Where it is directed against a court, or the judges of a court, having a clerk appointed pursuant to law, service upon the court or the judges thereof may be made by filing a certified copy of the order with the clerk.

3. Where it is to be served upon any other board or body, or upon the members thereof, it may be served in the manner as prescribed for service upon a like board or body of an alternative mandamus order.

Where the certiorari order was granted without notice, copies of the papers upon which the order was granted must be served with the order.

§ 1295. Stay of proceedings. Except as prescribed in this section, a certiorari order does not stay the execution of the determination to be reviewed or affect the power of the body or officer against which or whom it is granted. The court which grants the order, in its discretion and upon such terms as to the security or otherwise as justice requires, may direct that the execution of the determination be stayed pending the certiorari and until the further direction of the court. A bond, undertaking or other security given to procure such a stay is valid and effectual, according to its terms, in favor of a person beneficially interested in upholding the determination to be reviewed, who is admitted as a party to the special proceeding, as prescribed in section thirteen hundred and seventeen of this act.

§ 1296. Time and place of return. A certiorari order must be made returnable, within twenty days after the service thereof, at the office of the clerk of the court. If it was granted by the supreme court, it must be made returnable at the office of the clerk of the county designated therein wherein the determination to be reviewed was made; and if the county designated in the order is not the proper county, the court, upon motion, may amend the order accordingly. Thereupon all papers on file must be transferred to the clerk of the county where the order is made returnable by the amendment.

§ 1297. How return made. The clerk with whom a certiorari order is filed, and each person upon whom a certiorari order is served, as prescribed in section twelve hundred and ninety-four of this act, must make and annex to the copy of the order filed with or served upon him, a return, with a transcript annexed and certified by him, of the record of proceedings, and a statement of the other matter specified in and required by the order. The return must be filed in the office where the order is returnable, according to the command thereof.

§ 1298. Defect or omission in return. If a return is defective, the court may direct a further return. An omission to make a return as required by a certiorari order or by an order for a further return may be punished as a contempt of the court. But a judge or clerk shall not be thus punished, unless the petitioner, before the time when the return is required, pays him for his return the sum of two dollars, and, in addition, ten cents for each folio of the copies of papers required to be returned.

§ 1299. Subsequent proceedings as in action. After a certiorari order has been granted, the time to make a return to the petition and order may be enlarged, or any other order may be made, or proceeding taken, in the cause, in relation to any matter not provided for in this article, as a similar proceeding may be taken in an action brought in the same court and triable in the county where the order is returnable.

§ 1300. Hearing upon return. The cause must be heard at a term of the appellate division of the supreme court held within the judicial department embracing the county where the order was returnable. Either party may notice it for hearing at any time after the return is complete. Except as prescribed in the next section, it must be heard upon the order and return and the papers upon which the order was granted.

§ 1301. Order and return after term of office. A certiorari order may be granted against, and a return may be made by, an officer whose term of office has expired. Such an officer may be punished for a failure to make a return as required by the order, or to make a further return as required by an order for that purpose.

§ 1302. Bringing in third person. Upon the application of a person specially and beneficially interested in upholding or annulling the determination to be reviewed, the court, in its discretion, may admit him as a party in the special proceedings, upon such terms as justice requires. In a proper case, a term of the appellate division of the supreme court at which the cause is noticed for hearing and is placed upon the calendar may direct that notice of the pendency of the special proceeding be given to any person in such a manner as it thinks proper, and may suspend the hearing until notice is given accordingly.

§ 1303. Additional affidavits or proofs in certain cases. If the officer or other person whose duty it is to make a return dies, absconds, removes from the state, or becomes insane, after the order is granted and before making a return, or after making an insufficient return, and it appears that there is no other officer or person from whom a sufficient return can be procured by means of a new certiorari order, the court, in its discretion, may permit affidavits, or other written proofs, relating to the matters not sufficiently returned, to be produced, and may hear the cause accordingly. The court, in its discretion, also may permit either party to produce affidavits, or other written proofs, relating to any alleged error of fact, or any other question of fact, which is essential to the jurisdiction of the body or officer to make the determination to be reviewed, where the facts in relation thereto are not sufficiently stated in the return, and the court is satisfied that they cannot be made to appear, by means of an order for a further return.

§ 1304. Questions to be determined. The questions involving the merits to be determined by the court upon the hearing are the following only:

1. Whether the body or officer had jurisdiction of the subject matter of the determination under review.

2. Whether the authority conferred upon the body or officer in relation to that subject matter has been pursued in the mode required by law in order to authorize it or him to make the determination.

3. Whether, in making the determination, any rule of law affecting the rights of the parties thereto has been violated to the prejudice of the petitioner.

4. Whether there was any competent proof of all the facts necessary to be proved in order to authorize the making of the determination.

5. If there was such proof, whether, upon all the evidence, there was such a preponderance of proof against the existence of any of those facts that the verdict of a jury, affirming the existence thereof, rendered in an action in the supreme court triable by a jury, would be set aside by the court as against the weight of evidence.

§ 1305. Final order upon hearing. The court, upon the hearing, may make a final order annulling or confirming, wholly or partly, or modifying, the determination reviewed, as to any or all of the parties.

§ 1306. Award of restitution. Where the determination reviewed is annulled or modified, the court may order and enforce restitution in like manner, with like effect and subject to the same conditions as where a judgment is reversed upon appeal.

§ 1307. Costs. Costs, not exceeding fifty dollars and disbursements, may be awarded by the final order in favor of or against either party, in the discretion of the court.

§ 1308. Entry and enrollment of final order. The final order of the court must be entered in the office of the clerk where the certiorari order was returnable. But before it can be enforced, an enrollment thereof must be filed. For that purpose, the clerk must attach together and file in his office the papers upon which the cause was heard, a certified copy of the final order, and a certified copy of each order which in any way involves the merits or necessarily affects the final order.

§ 1309. Effect of filing of enrollment. The filing of the enrollment in the office of the clerk where the final order is entered, as prescribed in the last section, is a sufficient authority for any proceeding, by or before the body which, or the officer who, made the determination reviewed, which the final order of the court directs or permits. But where the execution of the final order is stayed by an appeal to the court of appeals, the proceedings below are stayed in like manner.

§ 1310. Definition of terms "body or officer" and "determination." The expression "body or officer," as used in this article, includes every court, tribunal, board, corporation, or other person, or aggregation of persons, whose determination may be reviewed by a certiorari order or by a writ of certiorari as the said writ heretofore existed; and the word "determination," as used in this article, includes every judgment, order, decision, adjudication or other act of such a body or officer, which is subject to be so reviewed.

§ 1311. Application of article to certain special cases. Where the right to a writ of certiorari is expressly conferred, or the issuing thereof is expressly authorized, by a statute passed before and remaining in force after this article takes effect, this article does not [illegible] or affect in any manner any provision of the former statute which expressly prescribes a different regulation with respect to any of the proceedings upon the certiorari to be issued thereunder.

§ 1312. Article applicable to civil cases only. This article is not applicable to a certiorari brought to review a determination made in any criminal matter, except a criminal contempt of court.

§ 1313. Writs of mandamus abolished. The alternative and peremptory writs of mandamus are hereby abolished. The relief heretofore obtained by either of such writs under the provisions of the code of civil procedure shall hereafter be obtained by orders as provided in this article. Wherever in any statute reference is made to a writ of mandamus, such reference shall be deemed to refer to a mandamus order as provided in this article, and the relief given by any such statute by means of a writ shall be obtained by an order as provided in this article.

§ 1315. Granting of alternative mandamus order. An alternative mandamus order may be granted upon a verified petition, which may be accompanied by other written proof, showing a proper case therefor. Previous notice of the application must be given to a judge of the court, or to the corporation, board, or other body, officer, or other person against which or whom the order is sought.

§ 1316. Contents of petition for alternative order. The statement, contained in a petition for an alternative mandamus order, of the facts constituting the grievance to redress which the order is issued, the joinder in the petition of two or more such grievances, and the command of the order, are subject to the provisions of statute and rule respecting the statement, in a complaint, of the facts constituting a cause of action, the joinder therein of two or more causes of action, and the demand of judgment thereupon.

§ 1317. Mandamus orders granted at special term. Except where special provision therefor is otherwise made in this article, a mandamus order can be granted only at a special term of the supreme court held within the judicial district embracing the county wherein an issue of fact joined upon an alternative mandamus order is triable, as prescribed in this article.

§ 1318. Mandamus order when granted by appellate division. A mandamus order may be granted at a term of the appellate division of the supreme court only, directed generally against any judge holding, or to hold, a special term of the same court, or directed against one or more judges of the same court named therein, in any case where such order may be issued out of the supreme court against any other court, or a judge thereof. Such order can be granted only at a term of the appellate division of the judicial department embracing the county wherein the action is triable or the special proceeding is brought, in the course of which the matter sought to be enforced by the mandamus order originated unless that term is not in session; in which case, it may be granted at a term of the appellate division of an adjoining judicial department.

§ 1319. Peremptory mandamus order in first instance. A peremptory mandamus order may be granted in the first instance where the applicant's right to the mandamus order depends only upon questions of law, and notice of the application has been given to a judge of the court or to the corporation, board, or other body, officer, or other person, against which or whom the order is directed. The notice must be served at least eight days before the application is heard; unless a shorter time is prescribed by an order to show cause made, where the application is to the special term, by the court or a judge thereof; or where the application is to the appellate division, by the appellate division or a justice of the appellate division of that judicial department. In such a case the application must be founded upon a verified petition, which may be accompanied by other written proofs, a copy of which must be served with the notice or order to show cause. Where the court, board or other body to be served consists of three or more members, the notice or order to show cause, and the papers upon which the application is to be made, may be served as prescribed for service of an alternative mandamus order. Except as prescribed in this section, or by special provision of law, a peremptory mandamus order cannot be granted until an alternative mandamus order has been granted and duly served, and the return day thereof has elapsed.

§ 1320. Entry of mandamus orders. An alternative mandamus order must be entered in the office of the clerk at whose office the return must be made. A peremptory mandamus order must be entered in the office of the clerk of the county wherein the term is held at which the order is returnable.

§ 1321. Service of alternative mandamus order. An alternative mandamus order must be served by delivering a certified copy thereof together with a copy of the petition, and other papers, if any, to the person to be served. Where the order is directed against a court or the judge or judges of a court, it must be served, either in term time or in vacation, upon the judge or judges of the court; except that, where the court consists of three or more judges, service upon a majority of them is sufficient. Where it is to be served upon a board or body, other than a corporation, service must be made upon a majority of the members thereof, unless the board or body was created by law and has a chairman or other presiding officer appointed pursuant to law, in which case, service upon him is sufficient. Where the order is to be served upon a corporation, service may be made upon any officer upon whom a summons issued out of the supreme court may be served.

§ 1322. Objections to petition and order in points of law. The person, upon whom an alternative mandamus order is served, instead of making a return to the petition and order, may file in the office where the order is returnable written objections to the papers in point of law; or he may object to a state of facts constituting a separate grievance and make return to the petition and order as to matters not affected by the objections.

§ 1323. Return to petition for mandamus order. A return to an alternative mandamus order and the petition therefor must be made within twenty days after the service of the order, at the office of the clerk of the county designated in the order, in which an issue of fact joined thereupon is triable. A peremptory order must be made returnable at a special term or a term of the appellate division of the supreme court, designated in the order, to which application for the alternative order might have been made.

§ 1324. Return or objections to first order. Where the first mandamus order has been duly served, a return must be made to the petition upon which the order was granted as therein required, unless it is an alternative order, and an objection to the papers in point of law is taken. In default of a return, the person or persons upon whom the order was served may be punished, upon the application of the petitioner, for a contempt of court.

§ 1325. Making and filing of return. The return to a petition and alternative mandamus order must be annexed to a copy of the order, and must be filed in the office of the clerk where it is returnable, within the time specified in the order. A person who has made a return to a petition and alternative annexed to a copy of the order, and before the expiration of the. The return to a peremptory mandamus order must be likewise annexed to a copy of the order, and, before the expiration of the first day of the term at which it is returnable, either must be delivered in open court, or be filed in the office of the clerk of the county wherein the term is to be held.

§ 1326. Form and contents of return. The provisions of statute or rule relating to the form and contents of an answer containing denials and allegations of new matter, except those provisions which relate to the verification of an answer, and to a counterclaim contained therein, apply to a return to a petition and alternative mandamus order, showing cause against obeying the command of the order. For the purpose of the application, each complete statement of facts assigning a cause why the command of the order ought not to be obeyed, is regarded as a separate defense and must be separately stated and numbered.

§ 1327. Objections to return as insufficient in law. The petitioner may object to the return, or to any complete statement of facts therein separately assigned as a cause for disobeying the command of the order, on the ground that the same is insufficient in law upon the face thereof.

§ 1328. Notice of filing return and objections. Where a return to a petition and alternative mandamus order has been filed, the attorney for the defendant making it must serve upon the attorney for the petitioner a notice of the filing thereof. Where the petitioner objects to the return or a part thereof in point of law, a copy of such objections must be served upon the attorney for the defendant within twenty days after the service of such a notice. Where the defendant objects to the petition or to a part thereof, a copy of such objections must be served upon the attorney for the petitioner within the time prescribed by law for filing the same. Objections in point of law raise an issue of law within the meaning of this article.

§ 1329. Application of certain provisions. No pleadings are allowed in a mandamus proceeding, except as prescribed in the foregoing sections of this article. The provisions of statute or rule relating to the form and contents of complaint and answer, and to objections to either, apply to the petition for a mandamus order and the return, respectively; except that it is not necessary to serve a copy of either upon the attorney for the adverse party, or to verify a return, and that neither can be amended without special application to the court, or stricken out as sham.

§ 1330. Motion to set aside order. An alternative mandamus order cannot be vacated or set aside upon motion for any matter involving the merits. A motion to set aside such an order for any other cause or to set aside or quash a peremptory mandamus order or to set aside the service of either order must be made at a term whereat the order might have been granted.

§ 1331. Issues of fact. An issue of fact arises upon a denial, contained in the return, of a material allegation of the petition upon which the order was granted, or upon a material allegation of new matter contained in a return; unless an objection thereto in point of law is taken. Where the petitioner objects in point of law to a complete statement of facts separately assigned as cause for disobeying the command of the order, an issue of fact arises with respect to the remainder of the return.

§ 1332. Subsequent proceedings same as in an action. Except as otherwise expressly prescribed by statute, the proceedings after issue is joined, upon the facts or upon the law, are the same, in all respects, as in an action; and each provision of statute or rule relating to the proceedings in an action apply thereto. For the purpose of the application, the petition for the order and the return are deemed to be pleadings in an action; and the final order is deemed to be a final judgment, and may be entered and docketed, and enforced, with respect to such parts thereof as are not enforced by a peremptory mandamus, as a final judgment in an action. But before the final order can be docketed or an execution issued thereupon, an enrollment must be filed thereupon as a judgment-roll in an action. For that purpose, the clerk must attach together and file in his office a certified copy of the final order, the petition and the return, or copies thereof, together with the same papers which are required by law to be incorporated into a judgment-roll in an action. Where the final order is in favor of the petitioner, it must include a peremptory mandamus.

§ 1333. Trial of issue of fact generally. An issue of fact, joined as prescribed in this article, must be tried by a jury, unless a jury trial is waived or a reference is directed by consent of parties. Where the order was issued upon the application of a private person, the petitioner or the defendant is entitled to a verdict, report or decision, where he would be entitled thereto if the issue was joined in an action brought by the petitioner against the defendant to recover damages for making a false return.

§ 1334. Place of trial of issue of fact. An issue of fact, if the alternative mandamus order was granted at a special term of the supreme court, is triable in the county wherein it is alleged in the petition that the material facts took place, unless the court directs it to be tried elsewhere. An issue of fact, if the alternative mandamus order was granted at a term of the appellate division of the supreme court, is triable in the county which determines the judicial department wherein the application for the order must be made; unless the appellate division directs it to be tried in another county of the same judicial department. Upon the trial of the issue of fact, the verdict, report or decision must be returned to, and the final order thereupon must be made by, the appellate division or the special term, as the case requires.

§ 1335. Trial of issue of law upon appellate division order. An issue of law, if the alternative mandamus order was granted by the appellate division, must be tried and the final order thereupon must be made by the appellate division.

§ 1336. Costs. Where an alternative mandamus order has been issued, costs may be awarded as in an action; except that, upon making a final order, the costs are in the discretion of the court. Where an application for a peremptory mandamus order is granted or denied, without a previous alternative mandamus order, costs not exceeding fifty dollars and disbursements may be awarded to either party as upon a motion.

§ 1337. Appeals. An appeal from a peremptory mandamus order where an alternative mandamus order was not previously issued, and an appeal from an order granting or denying an application for an alternative mandamus order, must be taken as from a final order made in a special proceeding. An appeal from a final order made upon an alternative mandamus order must be taken as an appeal from a judgment; and each provision of law relating to an appeal from a judgment, either to the appellate division or to the court of appeals, is applicable thereto. But where an appeal is taken, as prescribed in this section, from an order of the appellate division granting a peremptory mandamus, made upon an original application, or from a final order made upon an alternative mandamus, granted at the appellate division, the execution of the order appealed from shall not be stayed, except by the order of the same appellate division, made upon such terms as to security or otherwise as justice requires.

§ 1338. Recovery of damages by petitioner. Where a return has been made to a petition and alternative mandamus order issued upon the application of a private person, the court, upon making a final order for a peremptory mandamus, except where said order is directed against a state officer or officers, or an officer or officers of a municipal or private corporation, if the petitioner so elects, also must award to the petitioner, against the defendant who made the return, the same damages, if any, which the petitioner might recover in an action against the defendant for a false return. The petitioner may require his damages, where entitled thereto as aforesaid, to be assessed upon the trial of an issue of fact, if the verdict, report or decision is in his favor. Such an assessment of damages bars an action for a false return.

§ 1339. Stay of proceedings and enlargement of time. Where the mandamus order was granted at a term of the appellate division, an order staying the proceedings or enlarging the time to make a return can be made only by a justice of the appellate division of the same department; and where notice has been given of an application for a mandamus order at a term of the appellate division of the supreme court, or an order has been made to show cause at such term why a mandamus order should not issue, a stay of proceedings shall not be granted, before the hearing, by any court or judge.

§ 1340. Fine in certain cases. Where a final order includes a peremptory mandamus directed against a public officer, board or other body, commanding him or them to perform a public duty enjoined upon him or them by a special provision of law, if it appears to the court that the officer, or one or more members of the board or body, without just excuse have refused or neglected to perform the duty so enjoined, the court, besides awarding to the petitioner his damages and costs, as prescribed in this article, may impose, in the same order, a fine, not exceeding two hundred and fifty dollars, upon the officer, or upon each member of the board, who has so refused or neglected. The fine when collected must be paid into the treasury of the state; and the payment thereof bars any action for a penalty incurred by the person so fined, by reason of his refusal or neglect to perform the duty so enjoined.

PROHIBITION PROCEEDING

Section 1341. Prohibition writs abolished.
1342. Granting of alternative order.
1343. Alternative orders granted at special term.
1344. Alternative order, when granted by appellate division.
1345. Contents of alternative order.
1346. Service of alternative order.
1347. Return to alternative order.
1348. Return by party.
1349. Proceedings after return.
1350. Granting final order when no return made.
1351. Alternative order granted first.
1352. Motion to vacate or set aside prohibition orders.
1353. Final order; costs.
1354. Appeals.
1355. Stay of proceedings; enlargement of time.

§ 1341. Prohibition writs abolished. The alternative and absolute writs of prohibition are hereby abolished. The relief heretofore obtained by either of such writs under the provisions of the code of civil procedure shall hereafter be obtained by orders as provided in this article. Wherever in any statute reference is made to a writ of prohibition, such reference shall be deemed to refer to an alternative or final prohibition order, as the case may be, as provided in this article, and the relief given by any such statute by means of a writ shall be obtained by an order as provided in this article.

§ 1342. Granting of alternative order. An alternative prohibition order may be granted upon a verified petition, which may be accompanied by other written proof, showing a proper case therefor. Previous notice of the application must be given to a judge of the court, or to the corporation, board, or other body, officer, or other person against which or whom the order is sought.

§ 1343. Alternative orders granted at special term. Except where special provision therefor is otherwise made in this article, an alternative prohibition order can be granted only at a special term of the court. In the supreme court, the special term must be one held within the judicial district embracing the county wherein the action is triable or the special proceeding is brought, in the course of which the matter sought to be prohibited by the order originated.

§ 1344. Alternative order, when granted by appellate division. An alternative prohibition order may be granted at a term of the appellate division of the supreme court only, directed generally against any judge holding, or to hold, a special term of the same court, or directed against one or more judges of the same court, named therein, in any case where such an order may be issued out of the supreme court directed to any other court or to a judge thereof. Such an order can be granted only at the term of the appellate division of the judicial department embracing the county wherein the action is triable or the special proceeding is brought, in the course of which the matter sought to be prohibited by the order originated, unless a term of the appellate division of said department is not in session; in which case, it may be granted at a term of the appellate division in an adjoining judicial department.

§ 1345. Contents of alternative order. The alternative order must be directed against the court in which, or the judge before whom, and also the party in whose favor the proceedings to be restrained were taken or are about to be taken. It must command the court or judge and also the party to desist and refrain from any further proceedings in the action or special proceeding, or with respect to the particular matter or thing described therein, as the case may be, until the further direction of the court granting the order; and also to show cause, at the time when and the place where the order is made returnable, why they should not be absolutely restrained from any further proceedings in that action, special proceeding or matter. The order need not contain any statement of the facts or legal objections upon which the petitioner founds his claim to relief.

§ 1346. Service of alternative order. The alternative order must be served upon the court or judge, and also upon the party, as prescribed by law for the service of an alternative mandamus order. A copy of the papers upon which it was granted must be delivered with each copy of the order.

§ 1347. Return to alternative order. A return to a petition and an alternative order must be made either forthwith or at a day certain, before the term which granted the order, or upon the first day of a future term, therein specified, at which application for the order might have been made, as therein required. Where the order is granted at a term of the appellate division in a judicial department adjoining that wherein the matter originated, it may be made returnable, in the discretion of the court, at a term of the appellate division of either department. The return must be annexed to a copy of the order, and it either must be delivered in open court, or filed in the office of the clerk of the county where the order is returnable. Where the party makes a return, the court or judge also must make a return. In default thereof, the judge or the members of the court may be punished, upon the application of the petitioner, for a contempt of the court granting the order. A return to an alternative prohibition order cannot be compelled in any other case.

§ 1348. Return by party. A return to a petition and an alternative order, when made by a party, must be verified by his affidavit, as required for the verification of a pleading in a court of record, unless it consists only of objections to the legal sufficiently of the papers upon which the order was granted. Where the party unites with the court or judge in a return, or annexes to the court's or, the judge's return an instrument in writing, subscribed by him, to the effect that he adopts it and relies upon the matters therein contained as sufficient cause why the court or judge should not be restrained, as mentioned in the order, he is thenceforth deemed the sole defendant in the special proceeding; except that where a final order includes an absolute prohibition, such an order must be directed against the party and also against the court or the judge.

§ 1349. Proceedings after return. Pleadings are not allowed upon a prohibition order. Where an alternative order has been granted, the cause may be disposed of without further notice at the term at which the order is returnable. If it is not then disposed of, it may be brought to a hearing upon notice at a subsequent term. It must be heard at a term of the appellate division in the same judicial department or at a special term held in the same judicial district, as the case may be. The petitioner may controvert, by affidavit, any allegation of new matter contained in the return. The court may direct the trial of any question of fact by a jury, in like manner and with like effect as where an order is made for the trial by a jury of issues of fact joined in an action triable by the court. Where such a direction is given, the proceedings must be the same as upon the trial of issues so joined in an action.

§ 1350. Granting final order when no return made. Where the alternative order has been duly served upon the court or judge, and upon the party, the petitioner is entitled to a final order containing an absolute prohibition, unless a return is made by the court or judge and by the party according to the exigency of the alternative order, or within such further time as may be granted for the purpose.

§ 1351. Alternative order granted first. Except as otherwise specially prescribed by law, a final order containing an absolute prohibition cannot be granted until an alternative order has been issued and duly served and the return day thereof has elapsed.

§ 1352. Motion to vacate or set aside prohibition orders. An alternative prohibition order cannot be vacated or set aside, upon motion, for any matter involving the merits. An objection to the legal sufficiency of the papers upon which the order was granted may be taken by the return. A motion to vacate a final order containing an absolute prohibition, or to set aside an alternative order for any matter not involving the merits, must be made at a term where the order might have been granted.

§ 1353. Final order; costs. Where a final order is made in favor of the petitioner, it must include an absolute prohibition; and it may also direct that all proceedings, or any specified proceeding, theretofore taken in the action, special proceeding or matter, to which the absolute prohibition relates, be vacated and annulled. Where a final order is made against the petitioner, it must authorize the court or judge and the adverse party to proceed in the action, special proceeding or matter, as if the alternative order had not been issued. Costs, not exceeding fifty dollars and disbursements, may be awarded to either party as upon a motion.

§ 1354. Appeals. An order granting or denying an application for an alternative prohibition order, and a final order, made as prescribed in the last section, can be reviewed only by appeal. Where the order was made by the appellate division, the execution of the order appealed from shall not be stayed, except by an order made at a term of the appellate division in the same department, upon such terms as to security or otherwise as justice requires.

§ 1355. Stay of proceedings; enlargement of time. Where the prohibition order was granted at a term of the appellate division, an order staying the proceedings or enlarging the time to make a return can be made only by a justice of the appellate division of the judicial department within which the order is returnable; and where notice has been given of an application for a prohibition order at a term of the appellate division, or an order has been made to show cause at such term why a prohibition order should not issue, a stay of proceedings shall not be granted, before the hearing by any court or judge.

1381. Intermediate and final accounting of committee.
1382. Restoration of property.
1383. Death of incompetent; duty of committee.
1384. Jurisdiction of supreme court over contracts of incompetents.

§ 1356. Jurisdiction of supreme court; concurrent jurisdiction of county court. The jurisdiction of the supreme court extends to the custody of the person and the care of the property of a person incompetent to manage himself or his affairs in consequence of lunacy, idiocy, habitual drunkenness, or imbecility arising from old age or loss of memory and understanding, or other cause. Where a county court has jurisdiction of those matters, concurrent with that of the supreme court, the jurisdiction of the court first exercising it, as prescribed in this article, is exclusive of that of the other with respect to any matter within its jurisdiction for which provision is made in this article.

§ 1357. Duty of court having jurisdiction. The court exercising jurisdiction over the property of either of the incompetent persons, specified in the last section, must preserve his property from waste or destruction; and, out of the proceeds thereof, must provide for the payment of his debts and for the safe keeping and maintenance, and the education, when required, of the incompetent person and his family.

§ 1358. Jurisdiction of court to be exercised by committee. The jurisdiction specified in this article, must be exercised by means of a committee of the person, or a committee of the property or of a particular portion of the property of the incompetent person, appointed as prescribed in this article. The committee of the person and the committee of the property may be the same individual or different individuals, in the discretion of the court.

§ 1359. Petition for committee; by whom made. An application for the appointment of such a committee must be made by petition, which may be presented by any person.

Where the incompetent person has property which may be endangered in consequence of his incompetency, and no relative or other person applies for the appointment of a committee of his property, the overseer or superintendent of the poor of the town, district, county or city in which he resides, or, where there is no such officer, the officer or officers performing corresponding functions under another official title, must apply to the proper court for the appointment of such a committee; and the expenses of conducting the proceedings thereupon must be audited and allowed in the same manner as other official expenses of those officers are audited and allowed.

§ 1360. Notice of presentation of petition. The court, unless sufficient reasons for dispensing therewith are set forth in the petition or accompanying affidavit, must require notice of the presentation of the petition to be given to the husband or wife, if any, or to one or more relatives of the person alleged to be incompetent, or to an officer authorized by law to present such a petition. Where notice is required, it may be given in such manner which the court deems proper, and for that purpose, the hearing may be adjourned to a subsequent day, or to another term, at which the petition might have been presented.

The Same Bunch.

At a recital in one of the churches little Joe played a piece and carried a bouquet to one of the little girls who played. Later, another bouquet was sent to one of the players and Joe piped out, "Why, that's the same bunch of flowers that I took up."

Smallest Hogs.

The smallest known species of hogs are the pigmy swine of Australia. They are exactly like their larger brethren in every particular except size, being no larger than a good-sized house cat.—Brooklyn Eagle.

PARENT-TEACHERS CONVENTION AT ROCHESTER NEXT

spector of schools, whose subject was "For the Betterment of Health Conditions." Dr. Howe said he had been taking not of the absence of fathers from the meeting, and after all it was all right for it is the mother who has the care of the health of the child. Having come to realize the necessity of physical as well as mental fitness for successful living, there would soon be not only a health department in our normal schools, but pupils entering those schools would be given an entrance physical examination, and in addition to being taught physical fitness, they would be watched during their period of study to see that they kept physically fit all the way through. The normal students would be trained in the care of their own bodies in order that they might intelligently be able to train their children in the same important matter. The first thing in the way of betterment of health conditions in our schools, considered by the speaker, was that of buildings and grounds. Inspections had shown how grossly at fault were some of those conditions and how detrimental to the health of both child and teacher. One inestimable improvement was that of the installation of chemical toilets in the place of the unspeakable and immoral outhouses of past years.

Then there was mental hygiene which science had shown how retarded children were in many cases physically defective and that in such a way that a remedy was possible, restoring the child to its rightful standing in the school. This science was also taking note of the supernormal child, the precocious child, and the speaker prophesied that it would not be long before such children would be receiving the special training they needed.

One of the greatest problems had been mouth hygiene, but here the Red Cross was coming to the aid of the state. In Nassau county the Red Cross Chapter had provided two dental ambulances and furnished six dentists. These ambulances and the accompanying staffs visiting the rural schools had treated some 3,000 school children's teeth. The Westchester Chapter is now providing two ambulances and dentists to do the same work. But for the continued development and establishment of dental hygiene, there must be education in proper dental habits for the child.

Nutrition was another big factor in the betterment of health, for it is a basic part of health. Every cell in our bodies has its own function and needs its own rightful nourishment for the continuing of its function and the sustaining of life. In the past year there have been many surveys made along this line and it has been found that out of 20% of the children examined about 10% were undernourished as shown by lack of weight or full measurements. And this was quite as true of the child of well to do parents as of poorer ones. Many children rush off to school without breakfast; or with toast and coffee—the worst thing possible for the growing child—as their morning meal. It had been learned that 95% of the backward children in our schools were coffee drinkers.

The school nurse is proving to be a most efficient factor in the bettering of health conditions among our children, in fact our school nurses are considered by busy physicians today almost indispensable.

Said Dr. Howe, medical inspection of our schools has little or nothing to do with medicine; in fact the medical profession itself is having less and less to do with medicine, and is more and more trying to find the cause of the patient's trouble and to give remedial advice.

However, under medical guidance, in one year 475,000 children in the state were examined. 407,000 were found to be physically defective, and out of that number 141,000 had had those defects corrected. The speaker said had we had such inspection ten years ago, it might not have been necessary to reject so many of our youths in the late war, for physical unfitness. Dr. Howe then told of some of the special cases where defects had been corrected that were indeed touching and that seemed to almost in themselves prove the worth while character of the work.

It is the plan of the state department, to so train its teachers in health knowledge, that very soon our school children will be graded physically as well as mentally, infinitely to their advantage.

Miss Mary A. Steer, Supervisor of Boards of Child Welfare State Board of Charities gave an interesting and illuminating talk on "Child Welfare Laws," and was followed by Miss Martha H. Davis, Ulster County Agent for Dependent Children, who led the brief discussion that brought to a close the afternoon session.

The invocation at the evening session was pronounced by the Rev. Charles G. Ellis, after which the large audience was delighted with the singing of Mrs. Helen Stern Mann, who sang a charming lullaby. As an encore she sang "Pretty Damoselle," and when the applause still continued, she sang "Your Eyes."

Mrs. Holley then announced that the convention had just had a present from the Y. M. C. A., in that that body had offered the services of the entertainer at their banquet, the "Gloria Trumpeters," who would favor them with some selections. The four young lady trumpeters, in their white satin Greek costumes and fillet bound hair, were almost as attractive to look at standing on that classic platform with the foreground of artistic autumnal floral decorations as they were delightful to listen to. They were so enthusiastically encored for the first two numbers which they played delightfully, unaccompanied, that they finally returned and played a third selection accompanied at the piano by Harry P. Dodge. The convention was warm in its expression of appreciation of the favor granted by the musicians as well as the Y. M. C. A.

A brief but very interesting report was then given by Mrs. P. B. Herrick of Kenmore, chairman of the poster contest committee. In order to further advertise the present convention to the communities the plan had been hit upon of holding a poster contest amongst the school children of the state. The visualizing of the advantages of the convention was thought to be a good modern business method, but it had not been fully realized how far reaching the influence of the contest would be. As there was scarcity of time to arrange for the contest, the state department of education had given much assistance, and to the Shredded Wheat Company the committee was indebted for much clerical work done at practically no expense. In fact the contest had cost only $20.01. Postmaster DeWitt had been responsible for the reception of the posters here in Kingston, and over eighty of them are to be seen in room No. 32 at the high school, a truly wonderful collection. It is expected that many more will be added before the posters are judged and the prizes of $10 and $5 awarded some time today. Incidentally, advertising men in our city would do well to visit this exhibit, which will be open after 3 o'clock today.

The first speaker of the evening was Dr. Everett S. Elwood, secretary of the state hospital commission, who talked on the subject, "The Mental Dangers of Adolescence."

Dr. Elwood said that mental hygiene was the youngest of the health department's children, and had been looked upon with some misgivings as a possibly short-lived or at best troublesome youngster. But it was making good, and in fact was developing so well and receiving so much favorable consideration that even Chambers of Commerce were asking about it.

The doctor said we were prone to give too little attention to mental health, and too apt to follow the old time ideas of insanity as an evil dispensation. We are learning, however, that there can be nothing more vital than the study of mental health, for today we have some 40,000 mentally diseased people in our hospitals for the insane, and the cost of their care and maintenance is enormous. There has been, within the two past years, however, a decided falling off in cases of the alcoholic insane. Asked if the patients admitted to the hospitals ever recover, Dr. Elwood said five out of ten usually made a partial or complete recovery.

And the speaker made plain that there was no sharp dividing line between sanity and insanity.

Dr. Elwood described the adolescent period and said that during that period the child begins to break away from parental restraint, and then it is that the child needs the most careful mental guidance, the wisest and most considerate discipline, if in after life they are to be most efficient.

The speaker thought the father's place in the family was much more important than was indicated by the number of fathers present which called forth applause and laughter. If not carefully guided repression of the child's desires may result in the development of a cruel adult. The importance of wholesome habits of thought was dwelt upon.

The last speaker of the evening, and one of the most interesting in the day's group of Child Welfare speakers, was Mrs. Katherine B Whitmore, R. N., of the New York State Department of Health, whose subject was "Pre-School Days." In the wonderful work being done by the state, Mrs. Whitmore gave full credit to the co-operation of all women's organizations as greatly assisting and enlarging the state's work, in the reaching of the mothers of our children. Where a few years ago 137 out of 1,000 babies died before that age, there are now but 85 who die, and it is the hope of the department of health to reach the point where not more than 65 out of the 1,000 die, the highest percentage yet reached anywhere. The present better conditions were said to be due to the required registration of births. Another factor that had helped save our babies had been the cleaning up of our dairies. Still another factor had been the "Little Mothers' Leagues," fostered by the Parent-Teacher Associations and Mothers' Congress, whereby older girls had been taught the correct care and feeding of infants. Still another saving factor, reaching more particularly the rural districts had been the Farm and Home Bureaus. There are 28 Home Bureaus in the state and the instruction in nutrition and right feeding given by their managers had been of inestimable value.

Then Mrs. Whitmore told of the wonderful work of the healthmobile now being operated by the state. Considering that the healthmobile visited the sections where the children were as purely American as could be, having had American parents and grand parents, it was expected that normal children would be in the majority. Yet it was found that three-fourths of the children had one or more defects.

In the evening the motion picture affair came off, with a half hour talk and an hour and a half of pictures shown.

The importance of preventing disease was taught, and emphasis was laid upon the fact that what we call "children's diseases," communicable diseases need not be had by any child. But there is only one way to entirely do away with these diseases, and that is when everyone of us believes this fact and works to stamp out the disease by obedience to our health laws.

In closing, Mrs. Whitmore reminded her audience of the changed attitude of physicians and nurses toward public health questions during the past twenty years. Twenty years ago, she said, she would not tell what she knew, for it was because of her knowledge that she would have been hired as a trained nurse. Now physicians and nurses tell all they know for the better preservation of public health everywhere.

And from now on, the great lesson will be to teach people to keep well so that they need not have to get well.

CLINTONDALE.

Clintondale, Oct. 7.—The gospel services that were announced to be held in the gospel tent here, will, on more mature reflection, be held in the church instead. The reason of this is evident because of the coolness of the evenings. These services will begin next Sunday, Oct. 10th, not in the morning, as formerly announced, but in both the afternoon and the evening, 2:30 and 7:30 respectively, standard time. We have used this time in all our church services so that there need be no confusion about this announcement, for if you are running your time pieces on the new time just add one hour to the time here given—that is all.

These services will be continued every night for at least two weeks, and the pastor, the Rev. W. S. Empleton, will be assisted by the Rev. D. N. F. Blakeney, also the Rev. Ira Johnson, and other strong and reliable workers and pastors. The high notes of the gospel of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ will be brought out in these services; the four-fold gospel in its strong beauty emphasized.

We desire further to say that they will not be merely denominational, but broad in the spirit of Christ. You are welcome. Come and bring a bible and a friend.

Their Occupation.

A little five-year-old miss was visiting in the country, and was sent to the barn, where some men were shearing sheep, to look for her brother. She soon returned without him and said: "He ain't there; ain't nobody there only some men peelin' sheep."

PETTICOATS

It is our pleasure to invite you this week to the

FALL OPENING of 1920

WITH a careful discrimination, we have selected from sources that make certain of absolute correctness, fashions typical of the new mode.

In women's and misses' suits, coats and wraps, frocks, skirts, blouses the new fashions take upon themselves a revue of imposing character.

Opening displays offer at once an interesting view of modes of autumn 1920 and a splendid opportunity to make selections while assortments are so new and complete.

One might call these fashions individualized so skillfully are the preferences of our patrons taken into consideration. The requirements of type are studied with an understanding always noted here. In each separate group one sees a fashion distinctively new portrayed with real artistry. The groups as a whole comprise a thoroughly comprehensive interpretation of all that is most desirable in the world of fashion.

You are Cordially Invited to Attend the

FORMAL OPENING WEEK IN THIS STORE

Lord Morley of Blackburn, veteran English statesman, who has created a sensation in England by criticising the British Government's policy in Ireland. His letter was published in the London Times. Lord Morley wrote that "English misrule in Ireland has reached its peak" and that coercion is only breeding hatred and making settlement more difficult.

Heard in New England.

Many primitive New England sayings are restricted wholly to the agricultural population, and among these are utterances whose provincialism is not apparent to the speaker whose ear has become familiar to them. "Set out" is commonly used to express unfriendliness and in remote districts "shut off" is still good form in the best circles.

STATE P-T. A. CONSTITUTION

Is Adopted at Morning Session of Convention—Late Hours for Children and Effect of Movies Discussed—Banquet Tonight.

"Early to bed" and few but clean "movies" were advocated at this morning's session of the State Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Association at the high school. It was during that part of the program labeled "High Lights of the Work Through the State" that one of the delegates arose and said she thought that children would be much more healthy if they were sent to bed earlier. The speaker was followed by another who had the sandman's late coming at the door of the movies. Then several women reported that they only allowed their children to go to the motion pictures on Friday and Saturday nights, while Mrs. William R. Anderson of this city explained that last year the local clubs had induced the theater managers of this city to run Saturday morning shows for the little ones. While one woman thought that it was not even necessary for the children to go to the movies Saturday morning, but only the fresh air, another contended that the movies were with us and that the children would go. She said that it was up to the grown folks to see that their theaters showed clean films. When fairy tales on the screen were discussed, it was brought out that a niece of one of the delegates had seen the film version of "Hansel and Gretchen," and had become so frightened at the witch that she did not sleep for several weeks. She did not heartily approve of fairy tales. All the women, however, were at one on the early to bed proposition.

The budget which was read Wednesday calling for the raising of $2,-600 was adopted without a murmur. Then the constitution with which the executive board tussled at Gloversville some time ago, was read. After a lengthy discussion as to whether or no a district chairman is an officer, and if such just where she should be placed on the list of officers, the constitution was adopted. The district chairman was created as an office, and put at the bottom of the list.

When the constitution had been adopted it was found that the convention had no right to accept the invitation by Rochester to meet in that city, so that the motion was rescinded and in its place a motion recommending Rochester to the executive committee was made.

The session opened early this morning with a prayer by the Rev. P. C. Weyant, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church. Mrs. H. F. Dunbar sang a solo which took so well that she was compelled to give an encore.

This afternoon Judge Hasbrouck spoke on Americanization and the meeting was also addressed by Dr. George W. Wiley of Albany. This evening a banquet will be held in the Y. M. C. A., followed by a reception in the high school gymnasium. Tomorrow the delegates will be given an auto ride.

Cooks While You Play.

Women who keep house will be interested in a new invention being shown by Gregory & Co. It is the very thing every woman has dreamed of. Here's what the "Lorain" does. "Lorain" oven heat regulator is its full name: It cooks a full meal while you are away enjoying yourself. Women who hear of it for the first time say: "How can it be done?" It is all due to this wonderful device which is attached to a gas stove. It regulates the heat of the oven so that it can not vary. The meal is prepared and put in the oven. The temperature is then adjusted according to whether three, four or five hour cooking is wanted. Then you shut the oven door and go away and play golf or tennis, enjoy the matinee or social functions and when you get home dinner is ready to serve. It seems unbelievable but they are proving it at this store by demonstrations that are convincing.

Why Eye Shades Are Used.

The purpose of the eye shade is to shield the eye from harmful brilliancies in the field of view. In lighting from poorly concealed sources these brilliancies are, in many cases, 600,-000 to 800,000 times as great as the brightness of the printed page. Their images, falling on the dark adapted and highly sensitized peripheral retinas, cause great discomfort and interfere profoundly with the muscular adjustment of the eye needed for clear seeing.

We Need More Punctuation.

Card of Thanks.

Men Who Win Life's Prizes.

The big places in all walks of life today go to the men of ideas, the men who are able to think constructively, and from time immemorial the great thinkers have been the most-read men—the men who have profited by the experience of those who went before them.

Dried Mummies as Medicine.

Animal products were much used in medicine from the sixteenth to the eighteenth century. Dried mummy was a favorite remedy. The importation of mummy was an industry of some commercial importance and several writers of that day caution against the use of spurious mummy, giving directions as to what distinguishes the good from the poor product. There was much substitution, and one dealer was found to have done an extensive trade in bodies dried in imitation of the genuine article.—National Geographic Society Bulletin.

Art of Staining Glass.

Fifty years ago the old secret of staining glass, which was lost with the decline of art in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, was rediscovered and, with the aid of chemistry, has made remarkable progress. This is shown by the fact that today the glass-stainer disposes of more than 5,000 different pigments, while in the twelfth century, the golden age of glass staining, only 12 colors were known.

Choice of Subject.

Invention in painting does not imply the invention of the subject, for that is commonly supplied by the poet or historian. With respect to the choice, no subject can be proper that is not generally interesting. * * * There must be something, either in the action or in the object, in which men are universally concerned, and which powerfully strikes upon the public sympathy.—By Sir Joshua Reynolds.

Powder Puffs Replace Sugar.

Since the French sugar ration was increased and restaurants have resumed serving it, Paris women are converting their sugar boxes into powder-puff cases. The carrying of sugar in little gold boxes was a fashionable war fad. The new use for the boxes is said to have originated with a Rue de la Paix jeweler who saw in the rising sugar ration a decline in the demand for his wares.

Man's Debt to the Horse.

Not only has the horse inhabited the earth for many millions of years, but throughout the ages he has made the world ring with tales of equine valor. From Pegasus, the winged steed, who aided Bellerophon in slaying the monster, Chimaera, down to the 16,000,000 horses which helped the allies to win the World war, they have served man well, and ofttimes purchased his safety with their lives.

Foolish Oversensitiveness.

A great deal of discomfort arises from oversensitiveness about what people may say about you or your actions. Many unhappy persons seem to imagine that they are in an amphitheater, with the assembled world as spectators, whereas they are playing to empty benches all the while.

GOOD RECORDS MADE AT LEGION ATHLETIC MEET

Poughkeepsie Knights of Columbus Won Point Trophy, Scoring 28 Points—School No. 6 Won Grammar School Relay Race—Out of Town Athletes Star Win Most Firsts.

The big field and track meet of Kingston Post of the American Legion held at the Athletic Field on Cornell street Wednesday afternoon brought together some of the fastest athletes of the Hudson river valley, and some exceptionally good records were set up in the various events. The team sent up by the Poughkeepsie Knights of Columbus carried back the handsome trophy cup awarded the organization scoring the most points that afternoon. The Poughkeepsie Knights scored 28, while their nearest rivals, the Poughkeepsie American Legion team, scored 24 points. St. Peter's Lyceum was third with 13 points, while the Peekskill K. of C. boys collected 12 points. The Kingston Y. M. C. A. gathered 7, and the Newburgh Y. M. C. A. 3 points.

There was a big field in the 100 yard dash, the prizes for which were donated by the Rev. George Mabry of the Holy Cross Church, and it was run off in four heats, the first two men in each heat qualifying for the finals.

In the first heat J. J. Townsley of the Newburgh Wheelmen and P. S. Clarkson of the Peekskill K. of C. ran a dead heat in 11 2-5 seconds. K. L. Russell, Poughkeepsie American Legion second.

In the second heat C. N. Dewey of the Poughkeepsie American Legion and Leo Fitzgerald of St. Peter's Lyceum were the first two to break the tape in 10 4-5 seconds.

The third heat was won by Joe Haven of the Poughkeepsie K of C. with W. H. Waling of the Kingston Y. M. C. A. second. The time was 10 4 5 seconds.

The fourth heat was won by W. Leonard, unattached of Newburgh, with W. A. Higgins of the Poughkeepsie K. of C. second. The time was 11 seconds.

In the finals, K. L. Russell of Lafayette Post, American Legion, Poughkeepsie, flashed in first in 10 4-5 seconds. C. N. Dewey of the same Post was second, Leo Fitzgerald of St. Peter's Lyceum of this city was third and W. Leonard, unattached, of Newburgh, was fourth.

Charles McCann, of the Peekskill K. of C., who had won the mile, was second; George Masterson, of the Kingston Y. M. C. A., who had also placed in the mile, was third; and Max Cohen, unattached, of this city, was fourth.

Henry Pekin, of the Kingston Y. M. C. A., was fourth with a put of 37.5 feet.

Tied in High Jump.

The high jump brought out some crackerjack athletes and resulted in a tie for first place betwen Harry DeMott, unattached, of Newburgh, and Edward Smith unattached, of Poughkeepsie, with a leap of 5 feet 9 inches.

K. L. Russell, of the Poughkeepsie Legion, was second with a jump of 5 feet 6 inches; Henry Sarafian, of the N. Y. C., of Yonkers, was third with 5 feet 5 inches; while W. H. Gill, of the Kingston Y. This gave Smith second, Russell third and Sarafian fourth place, and eliminated Gill.

School No. 6 Won Relay.

The grammar and parochial race brought out some of the best running of the day, and the events were run in two heats. The prizes were donated by Mayor Canfield, and the distance was 880 yards, or once around the track. In the first heat School No. 6 finished first, School No. 2, second and School No. 1, third. Wheat started the inning with a hit to right for two bases and went to third on Myers infield out. He scored on Kennedy's slow dribbler down the first base line. The photograph shows Wheat sliding over home plate while Burns, Cleveland's first baseman, is throwing out Kennedy to Coveleskie, who covered first base on the play. THAT THE PUBLIC MAY KNOW

FOR A BETTER UNDERSTANDING

If you have read our previous statements, you have learned that this company has long been operating its gas department at a loss.

The point has been reached where the situation is serious, not only to the Company, but to the City itself. For if adequate and good gas service is to be maintained a higher rate is absolutely necessary.

Hundreds of gas companies throughout the country have obtained relief in the shape of rate adjustments to meet the new conditions.

We believe that when you consider the facts and realize what good gas service means to the city, you will not begrudge this company a rate that will enable it to continue in business.

The Press of Middletown, Conn., says:

"There is no denying that the problem confronting gas companies is a most difficult one. They have been hard hit in the way of advancing costs for almost everything that goes into gas making and many of them delayed a long time before announcing advanced rates of any kind. One thing is certain, the country cannot eat the cake of high wages and expect to have the dough of low prices in any direction. Everything has gone up. Gas must go as well."

The Press, Portland, Me., in an editorial on Judge Hand's decision in the Consolidated Gas case, says:

"New York gas companies, like similar companies everywhere, are finding difficulty in making gas with the present price of coal so that it can be sold profitably at figures which prevailed a few years ago. There is no reason why a gas company should be compelled to do business at a loss, any more than there is why a merchant should sell goods below their cost to him. The difference is that the merchant is permitted to charge what to him seems reasonable, while many gas companies, where they are restricted by law, as they have been in New York are compelled to manufacture gas and dispose of it for less than it costs to produce. This is a condition the New York courts are endeavoring to change."
